WASHINGTON CITY: TUESDAY December 3, 1972.

The Message.

The President's message is generally accepted as a dignified straight-forward common sense document. It disappoints the prophets who have held that it would contain some pyrotech. nic effects to make capital for a third term, On the contrary the President seems disposed to maintain a "let-well-enough-alone policy," both as regards our foreign relations and our home matters, including the questions of finance, revenue. &c. Various recommendations are made, but none are urged or argued in take any of the measures treated upon under his wing as special proteges for legislation. The exhibit of the resources of the country made is more than satisfactory-it is remarkable in view of the fact that we have just emerged from a civil war on the largest scale that the world ever saw. And the people of the country while reading the modest succinct document that sets forth the material condition of the country in terms so acceptable, will not be sorry to feel that the same calm firm hand that has been at the helm for the last four years is to continue to preside for another term.

It is evident that the subject of postal telegraphy is about to bom up prominently before Congress and the country. Postmaster General Creswell renews his recommendations in favor of the project, fortified by new facts and arguments, and the President, also, favors it. The project is also gaining favor with the people, as shown by the tone of the press in various parts of the country. When the subject was first broached, the general drift of expression was in the way of objection, but we find now that most of the papers that have given thought to the project are inclined to support it.

The Boston papers are just now handling the question, and the Advertiser while not taking sides points out the fallacy of various arguments opposed to the plan, and suggests that if the telegraph was managed by the government the public would be apt to receive quite as much consideration is its wants as from the telegraph company, and that the cost of dispatches would be cheapened because the big dividends that go to stockholders would be saved; and, that, further there would be a large deduction from the expenses of management. There are about fifty thousand telegraph offices in the country. The business of two-thirds of them can be done without increasing the present number of post-office employes. Call the average rent of telegraph offices but twenty dollars a year, and a million dollars can be saved in this item alone. The Boston Globe, in the same connection, avows its belief that the telegraph argest possible amount of money for the smallest practicable amount of service. It is stated by this Washington correspondent of the Globe that Representative Palmer, of Iowa, who is the leading champion of the project since the retirement of General C. C. Wash-Committee of Appropriations, but not especially as the committee's report. The idea is to allow Mr. Palmer to go with it before the House

The morning papers are squabbling as to who got on the street first with the President's metage, and who made the most typographical blunders in the effort. The imperfect style of getting out the message in an extra, rushed off in the way of competition without proof-reading or correction, is so unsatisfactory that we decided this year to issue it only in our regular afternoon edition, and in proper readable con

The western cities are an amiable set. They are always charging one another with having the small-pox or cholers, in order to diver business from their rivals, and now St. Louis accuses Cincinnati of a "mean trick" in report. ing that the epizoot had reached that city whereas, says the indignant Times, "not a single case of the horse disease has made its appearance here."

A warning to literary men against over-work is a finded in the remarkable statement of Mr. Greeny to Rev. Mr. Talmage ten days before his remination at Cincinnati, "that he had not had a sound sleep in fifteen years."

The Credit Mobilier story has been pretty effectually exploded, but Speaker Blaine, Mr. Dawes, and others named in it, seem determined to have it sifted to its bottom.

SLIVING ADVERTISEMENTS.

A medicine that has done more than all the pre scriptions of the pharmscopæla to protect the hu man system against the bodily ills superinduced by unhealthy surroundings, is certainly worthy of extraordinary preventive properties that Hostetter's Stomach bitters are so exceedingly popular in localities subject to the visitation of miasmatic fevers and other diseases produced by empelsoned air. A family that has escaped sickness during a sickly season in consequence of using the Bitters as a safeguard, is a living advertisement of the virtues of the preparation. The whole neighborhood realize the fact. "I couldn't have believed it," says one. " I scare ly credited the advertisements: but one believes what one sees," says another. "It is the very thing we need in this un wholesome section of country," remarks a third And the result is that the instinct of self defense the first law of nature, induces three-fourths o by this excellent invigorant and nervine; nor will sastrous effect on the pulmonary organs of the feesatirous effect on the pulmonary organs of the fee-ble and delicate, be likely to exercise the same un-toward in fluence in cases where the stomach and the external surface of the body (which always sympathizes with the digestive organs) have been tontd as d stimulated by a course of the restorative. The fits of ineigestion and irregularities of the bowels, which proceed from sudden changes of weather, may always be averted by a timely use of the Bitters.
